Stoney Jones' Smithton Team will Play Charleroi Here Tomorrow At 5:30

Stoney Jones' Smithton team will be the attraction at the Charleroi Baseball park tomorrow evening, time of contest being scheduled for 5:30 o'clock. The battery for the locals will be Beatty and Ringle.

Last year the Charleroi club met the Smithton aggregation twice, being defeated by them on both occasions. Manager Mathers hopes to reverse the decision tomorrow; at least the contest should prove to be one of the best staged on the home lot this season.

Eddie Anderson will play center field for the Charleroi team.

TENDLER RESPECTS PUNCHING ABILITY OF BOBBY BARRETT

Philadelphia, July 15.—Respecting the punching ability of Bobby Barrett and fully realizing that he will have to be in the best of shape to turn back the Clifton Heights knock-out artist to continue his reign as the leading welterweight in the state of Pennsylvania, Lew Tandler is going about his training for the much talked of bout as seriously as if he were taking another shot at a title.

On the sandy dunes at Atlantic City and nearby early in the morning, Tandler comes to this city every noon, steps through training paces in a local gymnasium for about an hour and then goes back to the seashore to have the benefit of the salt air.

To say that Tandler is training in a different way this time for Barrett than his working program called for two years ago is not stretching a point the least bit. It is the first time the southpaw saw fit to do his road work in Atlantic City. Furthermore, instead of doing the rest of his training in the outdoors Lefty Lew is quietly going about whipping himself into shape in a semi-secret manner in a gymnasium.

Two years ago Tandler trained differently for Barrett. For the first meeting, the southpaw came concentrated on building a defense for the Barrett right alone. This time Lefty Lew is getting ready to watch the Barrett left as well as the right. Against Goldman, Barrett was a made-over fighter. That is, he was a two-fisted fighter with a dangerous punch in either hand instead of only in his right. The first time he dropped Goldman it was with a snappy left hook.

RESCUE PARTIES TRY TO LEARN PEOPLE'S FATE

Spokane, Wash., July 15.—Desperate efforts were made today by rescue parties to ascertain the fate of an unknown number of persons believed to have been trapped by the forest fire at Wheeler Mills, near Blue Fly, in North Bend, Ortelie county.

The fire, driven by a strong west wind, is thought to have completely destroyed the settlement at Anderson Slide and may have taken a toll of 50 lives.

Among those known to have been in the danger zone, were Mr. and Mrs. Jack Wheeler, and four children, Nellie Dixon, a homesteader. Mr. and Mrs. McDavey and five children, and Mr. and Mrs. Wilbur Wheeler and two children.

In addition to these families, a number of mill workers are thought to have been trapped by flames, according to telegraph messages from the district.

DISCARD PITCHER GETS REVENGE BY HOLDING THE PIRATES IN CHECK

Harold Carlson, who was taken in tow by the Phils after he had been cast adrift by the Pirates, held his former teammates in a tight clutch yesterday at Forbes Field, while his new associates battered their way to an 8-3 victory. The Brooklyn club met a Waterloo in St. Louis—in fact the Dodgers were whitewashed—and this defeat leaves the Buccaneers still in third place, but the margin is so close that the computation must be carried into four figures in order to prove that the two rival clubs are not at a deadlock in the standing.

Ray Kremer was placed in a hole at the start of the game when Hazen Cuyler made a two-base muff, and this error was followed by some hard drives, which decided the game before the visitors had been retired in the first inning. Another misplay in the third round also was costly.

Kremer, after his bad start, had better success in the second and seemed to have settled down into his proper stride, but in the next chapter, his under-hand offerings again were "straightened out" sufficiently to satisfy Bill McKechnie that a change in hurlers was essential. Arnold Stone southpawed the remainder of the afternoon against Carlson and got into difficulties in one instance when the foe added a couple of points to the damaging total.

LUIS VICENTINO QUALIFIES FOR LEONARD'S TITLE

Luis Vicentini qualified as a challenger for the title held by Benny Leonard, when he put Rocky Kansas down and out at Brooklyn last night, a little feat that Leonard himself failed to do in four encounters.

In their last bout Leonard stopped Kansas because Rocky fractured his arm. Vicentini won because he broke Rocky's guard and caught him on the chin with a wild right slam. Vicentini unleashed the right as Rocky backed him into a corner and it sent Rocky tripping backward, off balance and dizzy. Rocky swayed forward and went down on the tips of his gloves. He shook his head at his corner, refusing the advice to stay down and regain his balance by taking a long count. As he got up Vicentini hurled blows at his head. Kansas blocked off a few of these shots but a left hand caught him on the side of the head and stunned him again. His arms dropped and he lurched about, sagging forward and groping for the canvas with his feet.

Vicentini had earned the victory beyond question.

WITH BIRDMEN IN WORLD FLIGHT

Paris, July 15.—"We'll be in Los Angeles long before September first," Lieut. Lowell Smith, commander of the American world flight, said today in an interview with the United Press, as he and his birdmen companions stretched their legs around for one of the busiest days of rest on record.

The aviators attended a reception in their honor tendered by Minister of Aviation Eynac; they met, and hob-nobbed for a while with their chief, Gen. Pershing; they placed a wreath upon the tomb of the Unknown Soldier; and they wrote their names in the famous "Book of Gold" at the Hotel De Ville.

All the time, it was plain to see, their thoughts were on the flight.

"We are 19 days behind schedule," Lieut. Smith said, speculatively.

"Of course," he added quickly, "we are not racing against time, but just to show the world that the world can be flown."

"And we've almost done it."

The modest, soft-spoken American commander said that he and his companions were looking forward to two weeks of real rest in London, while their planes are fitted with pontoons for the Atlantic trip. Then there will be no halting until they reach the Pacific Coast of the United States.

Paris continued to shower honors upon the birdmen. The French are aviation enthusiasts of the deepest type—the exploit of Rene la Roubie in flying from Paris to Shanghai made him the country's hero. Now the press is suggesting that perhaps the feat of the Americans has been an even greater one.

The French government will dine the flyers tonight.

Someone advised the Americans to spend a few days in Paris to "rest up."

"Nothing doing," retorted Lieut. Smith brusquely. "We are going right on to London and get organized for that Atlantic flight."

"I don't think Iceland will bother us," he said a moment later in reply to a question.

Loath to speak of the hardship and adventures of their sky voyage, the army aviators admitted the hardest part of their trip was behind them.

"It was toughest getting through Alaska to Japan," Lieut. Smith said. "Comparatively it is light," broke in a French aviation officer, who stood with Lieut. Smith. "Did you see our D'Oisy, or the Britisher, MacLaren?"

"We passed MacLaren, but did not see him, although I understood he saw us," Lieut. Smith replied.

(The British flyer is just now entering the dangerous passage of the Northern Pacific which the Americans declared the most difficult part of the world flight.)

The other Americans are as tactful as Lieutenant Smith. His French hosts couldn't persuade Lieut. Eric Nelson to say anything until someone handed him a glass of champagne whereupon he brightened up and said:

"Vive la France!"

Lieut. Smith, accompanied by tache, placed a wreath on the Unknown Soldier's tomb, standing for two minutes in silent salute. A crowd which remained quietly at a respectful distance applauded the flight commander as he departed.

The other Americans did not take part in this brief ceremony. They were working on the planes. Later, however, all knocked off and went to lunch with Gen. Pershing.

CONSTABLE CRATTY SLAIN IN BATTLE

when Mr. Cratty was left lone-handed by the departure of the firemen, who paraded in the Monessen line last evening. Usually there is a large crowd of the firemen loitering about the bridge ever ready to lend a helping hand to the officials.

Constable Cratty is survived by his widow and nine children, his mother, two sisters and a brother.

Six years ago the popular esteem in which he was held found attestation in his being elected constable of North Charleroi, a post which he subserved with a fidelity and trust that in the end proved fatal.

It is said that Marshall, at the Charleroi-Monessen hospital, stated that it was the intention of himself and Smith to stage a holdup of the toll office on the Charleroi-Monessen bridge until frustrated by Constable Cratty at the expense of his life.

During the early evening, or at the supper hour, Mr. Cratty asked his wife to accompany him to the movies, but having washed during the day, Mrs. Cratty did not feel equal to the pleasure trip. Mr. Cratty conducted a grocery store at the bridge to his popularity and the uniform courtesy with which he treated his friends and customers. But recently he had erected on a lot across from his former place of business a new building, stocked with new goods, and was in the very acme of business prosperity and community usefulness.

As a citizen of the borough said this morning: "In the death of William A. O. Cratty, North Charleroi suffers a well-nigh irreparable loss. He was the best man in our town. He gave of his time and fearlessness to the safeguarding of every interest, both public and private; his zeal to protect the citizenry of the borough, and their interests of whatsoever nature, being a predominant feature of his regime in an office for which he was so well qualified. His place will be hard to fill. He died doing his duty and in accordance with his oath of office to defend and protect. William A. O. Cratty leaves as a heritage to his family, his friends, and this community the record of a brave and efficient officer of the law, a purveyor of the peace and an administrator of justice through his office."

A report from the Charleroi-Monessen hospital this morning said that Marshall's condition was satisfactory and that his wounds are not of a dangerous nature.

North Charleroi firemen were called from Monessen, where they were marching in the parade, and indignation ran so high that a posse was formed, which headed by a determined leader, searched hill and dale under the glare of electric and improvised lights, hunting for the escaped murderer, suffice it to say the temper of the crowd was such that summary justice would have been his portion, if caught.

BIG MEN GATHER ON REPARATIONS

London, July 15.—Once again, with fresh optimism, allied statesmen are gathering for a conference on reparations.

Since the days of Versailles, Europe has taken heart at least half a dozen times on the eve of such parley, hopeful that this time surely the difficulties would be straightened out. Each time, the eventual result has been failure.

The lineup for tomorrow's conference, for which French, Belgian and Italian statesmen and their hosts of secretaries came to London, is a new one, which provides new grounds for optimism.

In the place of the smooth-faced, jovial conservative premier, Stanley Baldwin, with his inevitable pipe, will be the grizzled, serious-moustached Ramsay MacDonald; instead of the suave Poincare, there will be the vivid, emotional Adolphe Herriot. Two premiers new to power, each a Socialist, will try their hand and policies at the task of winding up the world war. The Belgian and Italian groups will be virtually the same as at the last conference to end reparations differences and difficulties.

Besides the change of faces at the council table, there is another more important reason why European statesmen are once more optimistic.

The agenda of the parley is confined strictly to the experts' plan. Here they speak of it as the Dawes report and consider it in a great measure an American report. It is felt that the United States is backing it.

American Ambassador Kellogg and Colonel James A. Logan, Jr., who has watched many reparations conferences in Paris, will sit at the center table tomorrow, while two assistants from the embassy and two from Col. Logan's Paris office will be at smaller tables with the experts.

Japan will be represented, but Germany will not.

The purpose of the conference has been changed somewhat since France voiced strenuous objections to prime minister MacDonald's ideas as to the agenda, and the British leader made a hasty trip to Paris and patched things up. But the main idea for which some 150 allied and American statesmen and experts are gathered is to make the expert's plan work and get reparations from Germany.

THIS BRIGHT BABY GIRL

Brought Joy to Home. Mrs. Price's Health Restored by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Scotoc, Pa.—"I never felt like working, and when I would try to do any work standing on my feet, I would just drag around all day long. At times I would have terrible pains and would be in bed three or four days. I was in this condition about a year when I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised in the papers. I had heard different women say it was good for women's troubles and my aunt thought it would help me as it had helped her. So I took the Vegetable Compound and it brought things right, and I was in good shape before I became a mother again. I believe it helps at birth, too, as with both my other babies. I suffered a great deal more than with this one. I thank you a thousand times for the good your medicine has done me. It has surely made our home a happy one."—Mrs. ROBERT PRICE, Scotoc, Pa.

In a recent country-wide canvass of purchasers of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, 95 out of every 100 report they were benefited by its use.

TESTS PROVE THAT TAR CAUSES CANCER

Compounds That Produce Disease Are Identified.

London.—It has long been known that tar is capable of producing cancer, but until Dr. Kenneth Kenway and others succeeded in producing cancer experimentally in lower animals by application of tar products no systematic attempt to identify the particular cancer-producing compounds of tar was possible. In an article in a recent number of the British Medical Journal Dr. E. L. Kenway of the Cancer Hospital Research Institute indicates what fractions of coal tar are capable of producing cancer and describes his attempts to identify the cancer-producing substance among them. Doctor Kenway's experiments, which have continued for many months, were made under the supervision of Doctor Leitch, who is director of the Research Institute.

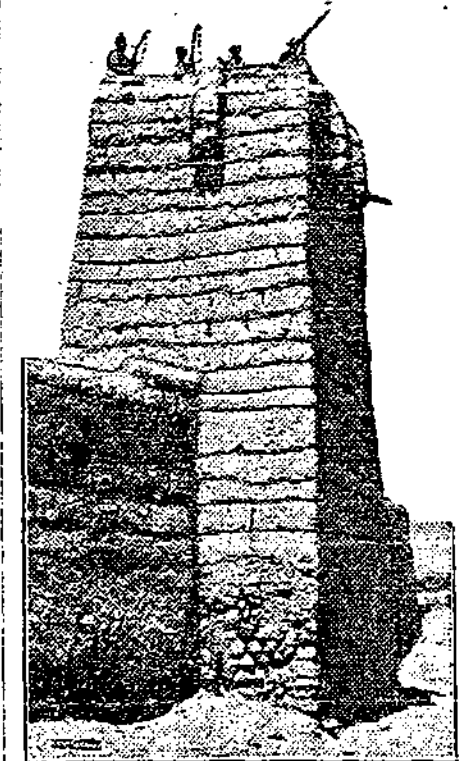

Produce Cancer in Laboratory. The forms of tar most important in the study of cancer, Doctor Kenway finds, are lignite tar, gas-works tar, producer-gas tar, coke-oven tar and blast-furnace tar. Of these the first four probably produce cancer, while the last one does not. Doctor Kenway has collected evidence of the effect of each of these substances on the men engaged in producing them, and by applying certain of them to the skins of mice he has been able to produce cancer in the laboratory.

"The industrial evidence alone shows that the cancer-producing substance is present in the higher boiling fractions, namely, creosote oil, anthracene oil (and hence in the green oil and crude anthracene) and pitch," he writes. "The experimental evidence supplements this by showing that the substance is not concentrated in the solids suspended in anthracene oil and that it is present in the highest boiling distillate obtainable from pitch. Hence it may distill over through an interval of temperature extending roughly from 250 degrees C. (the creosote fraction) to above 500 degrees C. (the 'pitch distillate'); that is, over a range of 250 degrees or more."

Causes Most Cases. High-temperature coal tar, Doctor Kenway finds, produces far more cases of industrial cancer than all the others. The petroleum of Pennsylvania and Canada do not, according to the evidence, produce many cases of cancer.

"Thus far the attempts made to find the cancer-producing substance among the known constituents of coal tar have given wholly negative results," Doctor Kenway concludes. "It now seems not unlikely that this substance is a compound as yet unknown, which is unstable and present in amounts perhaps as small as those of the vitamins in foods; as in the case of some hormones, its identification may be long delayed, even when very concentrated preparations can be obtained. The substances which are known to be present in coal tar have been isolated because they are specially abundant, or stable, or capable of forming well-defined compounds; the unknown substances are unknown because they have not these properties and the cancer-producing substance may well be among them."

Khyber Pass of Kipling Fame Guarded by British

Khyber Pass, sung by Kipling and famed in history since the hordes of Alexander marched through it, is once again heavily guarded by British troops. An armed camp at the mouth of the famous defile into Afghanistan is maintained against the double threats of Indian unrest and a possible bolshevik invasion from eastern Russia. Pictured above is the block house, or watch tower of an Afridis Khan. Each house in the Afridis country is a small fort. India's loyal sepoy guard the Afghan-Indo border and keep peace among the many independent tribes.

Held for Theft of Human Head Collection

Los Angeles.—Timothy P. O'Brien is in jail here charged with stealing human heads. Police admitted they were puzzled when George Sullivan reported last March that some one had stolen his $25,000 collection of preserved human heads and other curios gathered during a journey to the head waters of the Amazon. Where to look for a human head burglar kept them guessing, but the clues came to light in a side show at Long Beach, and O'Brien was arrested.

MARRY IN HOSPITAL; BRIDE TAKES ILL

Alderman A. N. Jenkins of Monongahela officiated at a marriage ceremony in a private room at the Memorial hospital Saturday afternoon, in which Miss Catherine Collett, of Wheeling, W. Va., and Ira Leslie Drake, of Monongahela, were man and wife. The newlyweds some time ago set July 12 as the date for their wedding. On July 4 the bride went to Monongahela to visit relatives and while in that city was stricken by inflammatory rheumatism. She was removed to the hospital where she has since been a patient and is well on the road to recovery.

The young couple without revealing their plans to anyone, arranged for the marriage and Alderman Jenkins was chosen to perform the ceremony. Not even the attending nurse was aware of the impending marriage until she went to Miss Collett's room and heard Alderman Jenkins pronounce the final words of the marriage ceremony. Mr. Drake is an employee of the Pennsylvania Railroad company. Mrs. Drake will leave the hospital early next week greatly improved. They will reside in Monongahela.

Bulgar Generates Power From Ocean Waves.

Berlin.—A floating power plant for the exploitation of the energies of the sea has been constructed, it is claimed, by Wodenitscharoff, citizen of the south Bulgarian town of Sliven.

Reports from Burgas, on the Black sea, where tests are being made, are extremely optimistic. They claim that the efficiency of Wodenitscharoff's method has been established beyond dispute by these tests, the results of which have induced the Bulgarian government to finance them further.

Wodenitscharoff's method differs fundamentally from all previous experiments to exploit sea energy. He utilizes the energy of the waves proper, while, heretofore, inventors have chiefly tried to utilize the energies of the tide.

After many failures during the last ten years—the model tested at Burgas is the fifth—Wodenitscharoff succeeded in constructing an apparatus fitted for his purpose.

The construction of his "stithia"—the Bulgarian for goblin—is simple. Not far from the shore a platform rests on a foundation of iron piles with a float suspended between the piles. From this float the movements of the range of wheels above the platform. These wheels are arranged in a manner permitting of revolution in one direction only, thus creating power.

It is claimed that the tests with the "stithia" have proved that 1,333 horsepower can be produced per second with a float of 100 tons water displacement.

An apparatus of that character costs approximately the same as a Diesel motor, producing only 1,000 horsepower per second.

Famous Vienna Waltz Hissed in Land of Birth

Vienna.—In Vienna, the birthplace of the waltz, and in the Hofburg palace itself, the band was vigorously and persistently hissed when it struck up its fifteenth waltz. The attempt to make the Schrifststeller ball exclusively a white ball had to be abandoned.

This is the most conservative of all the Vienna annual balls. It is attended by the best Austrian families and does not make any special appeal to luxury and ostentation, so that the new rich do not attend it.

But the attempt to play waltzes for five hours continuously failed ignominiously at midnight, for the conservative Viennese, who make it a principle to dance nothing but waltzes and do not as a rule waltz particularly well, found themselves in a minority.

Directly the band struck up a lively one-step there were twice as many dancers on the floor as there had been before, and after that only about every third dance was a waltz.

Los Angeles Policeman Heir to $500,000 Estate

Los Angeles, Cal.—Receiving a message inquiring as to the whereabouts of Herbert R. Reynolds, described as beneficiary of a $500,000 estate in Philadelphia, police officials here discovered the man sought is a member of their force and called him off a beat he was traveling in Hollywood. Reynolds heard the news without enthusiasm and declined to tell reporters how it feels to be rich. He said the estate was that of his father-in-law, the late Mangus H. Brown.

Gun Believed Carried by Crusoe Auctioned for $250

London.—Robinson Crusoe's old flintlock musket, believed to be the authentic weapon carried by Alexander Selkirk during his four years' exile on Juan Fernandez island, which inspired Defoe's celebrated story, was sold at auction for $250.

She Has Had 19 Babies

Oconto, Wis.—The story brought the nineteenth baby to the home of Peter Shallow, prosperous farmer of Little River, just north of this city. Of the nineteen children born to the Shallow family, thirteen are living. The family has had four sets of twins. The mother was married when she was fourteen and is now forty-two.

Tunnel Near Boston Dug in 1745 Remains

Boston.—Probably few people know that within 20 miles of Boston is the oldest tunnel built by white men in the United States.

In 1712 Isaac Hobart of Hingham emigrated from Hingham to South Abington, and in 1781 he became a partner with five other men in a project to build a saw and grist mill on Hersey's river.

Close by, but separated by a considerable ridge, was another stream of considerable size flowing in the same direction. Hobart conceived the idea of joining the two by a tunnel and canal and thereby increasing his water power. No work of that kind had yet been done in America unless by the prehistoric Indian tribes in the far Southwest.

In 1745 he began his project and built a canal a mile long and a tunnel nearly 15 rods in length, which still remains.

THE HOSPITAL DRIVE.

This forthcoming drive for a new hospital institution in this community, where the sick and the injured can be expeditiously cared for, in quarters commodious, and with skillful doctors and nurses at our command, will be a boon to all the people, and commands not only our attention, but our substantial approbation as well. The directorate and promoters are giving of their time, not for gain, but through a humanitarian impulse, so commendable and so logical, that no reasonable excuse can be given for not subscribing to a fund where community weal and the best interests of our people as a whole, are so vitally concerned. When the drive proper is inaugurated it is for all of us to show that we are imbued and impregnated with that lofty and commendable civic pride which means service. And after all, what is of greater moment than to "bind up the wounds of the suffering; lend aid and succor to the sick."

There is none but what can give something toward the commendable object of the launching of a new hospital building in Charleroi or North Charleroi. The matter of the location of the structure, once assured, is an after proposition that can be doubtless amicably settled; the thing now is to aid with our substantial approbation the movement on hand to give us an institution whereby the people of the borough and the community can be properly cared for, efficiently cared for, at less cost and trouble than is now the case, where so many are turned away and go to Pittsburgh because the present building is inadequate for the demands made upon it.

In a recent address before the British Science Guild, Baron Sumner denounced three new inventions—the gramophone, which "has corrupted the musical sense; the moving picture, which "does little except stimulate the passions and act as a soporific for the human mind;" and the motor car, "than which I know nothing that has done more to increase a feeling of jealousy and dislikes between the classes." The three "nuisances"—as Baron Sumner would no doubt describe them—must be more expensive in England than in America. Over here they are almost literally within the reach of everybody and can be accurately characterized as popular playthings of the proletariat.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has given a million dollars toward the reconstruction of the Rheims Cathedral and the historic monuments at Versailles and Fontainebleau, which he regards not merely as valuable possessions of France but as "the patrimony of all nations." This admirable benefaction will furnish no material for foreign cartoonists who picture American millionaires as hard bargainers for art treasures to be shipped to the United States with a view only to ostentatious self-glorification.

It is stated that the 1923 fire loss in the United States was the greatest since 1906, the year of the San Francisco disaster. Crime and carelessness are the two general causes assigned. According to the National Board of Fire Underwriters, at least 75 per cent. of these fires were "needless"—not meaning to say, of course, that the other 25 per cent were needed.

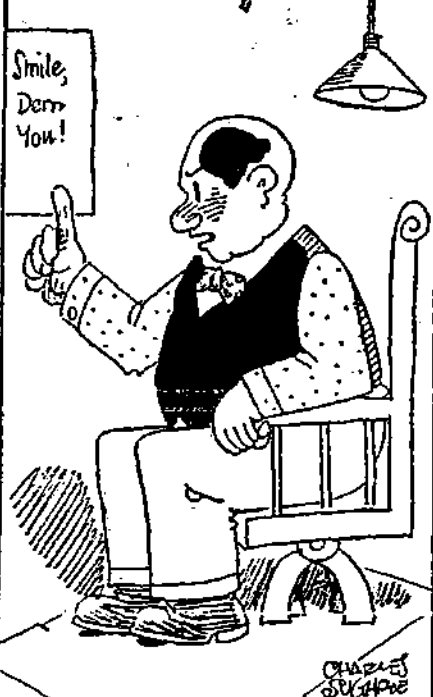

President Coolidge stands for the existing and only possible international court, and for all responsibilities or burdens as may be involved, in what he pointedly describes as "the square American way" as opposed to another and impossible court obviously loaded with conditions designed to defeat not only its purpose but its very existence.

The American Legion remembers. "Our war-time President died for the cause he so fervently believed in," says Commander Quinn, "as surely as if his name had been on the barbed wire of Chateau Thierry. He was our comrade, our inspired leader, with universal peace as his heart's desire."

One Democratic editor characterizes the nomination of John W. Davis as "victory snatched from defeat." The prolongation of factional

PROGRAM OF DEMOCRATS IN THE CAMPAIGN

New York, July 15.—The Democrats probably will direct a four-cornered campaign to the voters of the country to put over John W. Davis as the next president of the United States.

The nominee has been in conference with party leaders from all sections of the country since his selection and it has been fairly well established that headquarters are to be opened at Chicago, New York, and San Francisco.

Davis as its own, and the nominee will receive notification of the nomination at his boyhood home at Clarksburg, W. Va. The nomination may be received on the front porch of the old home at 330 Lee street.

Davis is now busy collecting ideas for the first political broadside to be delivered when he receives notification of the nomination. Put in the words of Isadore Rockweiler of Los Angeles:

"Davis' speech of acceptance will surprise everyone."

The Democratic party plans to gain the jump on the Republicans as the present plan calls for the acceptance speech to be made a week prior to the Coolidge speech of acceptance. The president will be notified at Washington, August 14.

The task of selecting a chairman of the national committee is still holding up the movements of the Democratic machine. Correll Hull, retiring chairman was in conference with Davis late last night and the conference will be resumed the first thing today.

In an interview yesterday Davis said he had made no personal selection for the post. He showed his readiness to accept Frank L. Polk, by saying: "Frank's a good man." Polk has repeatedly said he did not care to head the Democratic campaign, although willing to be one of the active workers.

The big New York machine was welded into shape last night for the coming campaign, when Tammany Hall selected Judge George W. Olvany as leader of the Wigwag forces. He will succeed the late Charles F. Murphy.

Davis will spend the week in New York maintaining his conferences with party leaders at the home of Frank L. Polk. Friday he will gather up the ideas he has gained from these conferences and retire to the home of Charles Dana Gibson at Dark Harbor, Maine, where he will draft his speech of acceptance.

BOOK IS READY FOR MOTORISTS

"Facts Motorists Should Know" is the title of a bulletin issued by the State Department of Highways, which next to roads, will be regarded by automobilists as one of the best things the department ever did. It is in the form of a time-table folder and contains information of wide range and undisputed usefulness.

Motorists are able to procure copies of the bulletin at the State Department of Highways. They will be given to applicants free. About 10,000 have been printed.

The bulletin was prepared by M. H. James, head of the publicity bureau, and required months of compilation. It gives data on through motor routes, a comprehensive table of distances, location of tourist camps, points of scenic interest, names and locations of mountains, the rules of the road and a digest of the State's motor laws.

There are thirty pages in the bulletin, with a map insert showing the State's highways, brief sketches of the main highways and trails, routes between sizeable cities, historic points, State forest parks, camp sites by counties, color schemes of State license tags with license privileges extended by the states and other material that makes the bulletin a very remarkable handbook for the motorist.

The next meeting will be held Monday evening, July 21 at the home of Mrs. Giordanengo.

The Young Ladies' Sodality of St. Jerome's church held their annual picnic at Kennywood park Sunday. The trip was made in one of the Monessen-Greensburg busses and the party was chaperoned by Mrs. William McBride of Crest avenue. The girls spent the day enjoying the many amusements of the park, also the band concerts, which are given on Sunday afternoon and evenings at the park. The picnic dinner and supper also played an important part in the day's program. The girls all voted that this was one of the most enjoyable picnics ever held and are anticipating a return trip to Kennywood next year.

THREE MONTHS SUPPLY OF COFFEE ON HAND

New York, July 15.—"Even if the political outbreak in Sao Paulo, Brazil, grows more serious than the most recent cables indicate, the American coffee drinker may find comfort in the fact that there is at least a three month's supply of coffee available for the United States," is the statement made today by Felix Coste, executive secretary of the National Coffee Roasters' Association.

"It is estimated that there is about a sixty day supply in the hands of American wholesalers. The visible supply also includes 355,799 bags of Brazilian and 404,242 bags of mild coffees in American warehouses and 927,400 bags of Brazilian coffee afloat to this country. At the present rate of consumption (roughly 900,000 bags a month) this total in warehouse and afloat of 1,387,441 bags represents an additional month and one-half's supply.

"The situation in Brazil throws considerable uncertainty upon the future coffee supply. There are four Brazilian coffee shipping ports—Santos, the largest and the seaport of Sao Paulo, where the outbreak seems to centre; Rio Janeiro, Victoria and Bahia. We have figures for only the two former. The warehouses at Santos contain 1,236,000 bags and those in Rio Janeiro, 296,000 bags.

"A cable today states that Santos is safely in the hands of the Government forces. If this situation continues, shipments from that port will probably continue as long as the supply lasts. The same likelihood of continued shipments holds good for Rio.

"If the outbreak spreads, this country will find itself deprived of its principal coffee source. For the past two years Brazil has been building big interior coffee warehouses capable of holding 5,000,000 bags. These warehouses contain not only 3,000,000 bags of the old coffee crop, but such portion of the new crop as has been harvested when the outbreak began.

PROGRESSIVES NAME 13 OF FEMALE SEX

Washington, July 15.—Thirteen women were appointed to the Progressive National committee today as La Follette leaders launched a special campaign to attract the feminine vote.

Wives of farmers and laborers throughout the nation will be called to the polls to file their protest against the leadership of the Republican and Democratic parties.

The special woman's campaign is being conducted with the advice of Mrs. Robert M. La Follette, wife of the presidential candidate. She acted as the Senator's counsellor in the fight for suffrage in Wisconsin.

La Follette leaders believe the woman's vote in November will prove a greater factor in the final result than at any time since national suffrage was accomplished. They feel it has been the weak point in their campaign, but with the organization of the special drive they believe they can present a formidable front as compared with the Republicans and Democrats.

La Follette's record as a leader of the woman's equal rights fight in Wisconsin will be used as a basis for the movement.

Actual work of the women's group will be started when the new national committee meets here Friday and Saturday. The membership of the committee was increased to 45 to accommodate some of the newly selected women who hereafter will play a prominent part in the entire work of organization.

At the Cleveland convention, where La Follette was endorsed by the labor groups, women were fully represented but their position in the campaign was not definitely made known until the announcement this morning.

Naturally, the contents of these warehouses is not available as long as railroad traffic is interrupted."

Clearance Sales

It is well to know the value of Clearance Sales and also its dangers. It seems, anymore, that wild and sensational headlines must be printed to get attention. But good people, Clearance Sales always come at this store. There is a time at the end of the season when we must close out seasonal merchandise at a loss and prepare for the coming season.

We are trying to make this the Biggest Event of our history. Have cut the prices hard and we mean it. We will prove it to you. Don't be misled. Come to this Sale and let Prices and Values prove the Bargains.
